Welcome and thank you for opening your managed account. You have conveyed to us a trust we take very seriously and we appreciate the confidence you have placed in us. As the holder of a new account, you should be aware of a few things regarding the manner in which your account will be handled.

We appreciate the opportunity to serve your financial needs and we welcome you to our group of investors. Your account will be managed by our Investment Timing Model according to the investment objective selected. We will use all or part of the investment disciplines and cycle analysis developed by our firm over the past years in managing your account.

All managed account clients should understand the risk and rewards of investing. We make no promises or guarantee that any individual investment or portfolio will appreciate in value. Investment markets are always subject to gains and losses. We attempt to manage the risk of investing, but it is impossible to eliminate it. Our goal is to have gains exceed losses over a reasonable period of major market moves. We are committed to you for nothing less. We are grateful for your confidence in us. Thank you for selecting the Wall Street Money Management Group, Inc.

If you are transferring positions to us that you hold in existing accounts, you should be aware that it is not our policy to immediately sell off positions held in the account. We will, however, sell positions if and when their investment cycles turn down. In the case of in-kind transfers received by us, liquidation transaction fees will apply at our normal advertised discount commission rates. As long as the investment performs acceptably we will continue to hold it. However, you have given us discretion to sell investments when we deem it necessary and prudent. Clients desiring to hold positions where substantial gains exist or who have emotional ties to a stock are advised to transfer these securities into a separate, self-directed, non-managed account with us.

You have given us discretion over your managed account. This gives us a limited trading authorization to buy and sell securities in your account. Unfortunately, you will no longer be able to trade in this account. Managed accounts are not for everyone. Clients who require daily or frequent interaction and involvement in day-to-day activity in their portfolio should not consider a managed account. We suggest you evaluate your account performance based on the review of the monthly statements received by you on a regular basis.

As a client of the firm, you will have access to our regularly updated investment advisory detailing the current status of our Investment Timing Model governing your account.

Please read and consider the following descriptions and select the type of account, following our Investment Timing Model, which is best suited to your investment goals, personal temperament and risk tolerance. The account objective chosen is from among those offered by the firm. Decisions made on your behalf in this account will be made according to the account objective, which may or may not be entirely compatible with your individual needs for suitability. You give permission to us to manage and switch investments solely according to the stated objectives of the account. Transactions in all portfolios are subject to transaction fees charged to us by Sterne, Agee & Leach, our clearing firm. Financial planning and financial consultations are not services offered by the firm. Clients with multiple accounts with similar objectives may experience some duplication of trades in these accounts from time to time. Similar investments may be purchased for accounts with varying objectives. For temporary defensive purposes, your account from time to time will have a significant portion, and possibly all, of its assets in U.S. Government obligations or money market instruments. These investments may conflict with or impair the accounts ability to include or meet our stated objectives. These accounts are best suited for long-term investors who can tolerate wide share price fluctuations.
